

MEAGHAN ADKISSON, Volunteer & Board Member

Meaghan has been volunteering with iCan House since 2017. She brings a neurodivergent perspective and lived experience as an autistic adult. After many years of floundering, Meaghan earned an AS in Programming from Forsyth Technical Community College. She is now employed as a web developer. As she was only able to achieve this after a diagnosis and with support, Meaghan understands how important disability support, social skills, societal acceptance, and a social support network are for living one's best life. Meaghan lives near Winston-Salem with her cat Conri. She is passionate about racial equity, mental health, LGBT+ issues, disability justice, the safety and success of young neurodivergent people, Marvel movies, cheetahs, and memorizing dialogue from Lilo And Stitch: The Series.
